Brands We REPRESENT

SOFTWARE SOLUTIONS

We provide our clients with complete peace of mind by offering a one year technical support and warranty period on almost all our project development work.

Any programming faults which may be identified within the first year following the project completion date will be corrected promptly and free of charge. We are happy to offer this as we have confidence upon the quality of our solutions and the high level of testing incurred during the development cycle.

Technical support can also be offered by phone, free of charge, for a period of one year. This support can be about any aspect of the development including reminders about how to use features of the application developed by us for you.

In addition to the one year technical support and warranty period, you may wish to take up our monthly maintenance contract. Many of our clients running dedicated or co-located servers find this as an essential facility.

As part of our on-going service to you, we shall follow up your project to ensure everything is running smoothly. We will welcome all feedback and will appreciate your views on the effectiveness of the project and whether it has met its functional and business objectives or not. Also we would also be interested to know if you may have any plan for enhancing your web product or of any other future prospects.
